

FEMALE REPRODUCTIVE SYSTEM

If you don't use contraception, you could get pregnant

If you don't use contraception every time you have sex, there's a chance you could get pregnant, even if:

- it's your first time having sex
- you don't have an orgasm
- your partner withdraws his penis from your vagina before he ejaculates
- you have sex when you have your period
- you wash your vagina after you have sex
- you and your partner have sex in a position that's different to normal.

If you want to have sex but don't want to get pregnant, you will need to use contraception

(Reproduced with permission from Family Planning Victoria, Key facts about contraception, <https://www.fpv.org.au/for-you/contraception/key-facts-about-contraception>)